Ezcape from Sobibor David Fischler

On October 14, 1943, over 700 Jews carried out a daring escape from the Nazi extermination camp at Sobibor, Poland. The standard histories of the event, however, leave out a crucial detail about how they managed such a feat against overwhelming odds. It turns out that they got some outside help from a completely unexpected source.

It's hard to imagine that zombies could ever be good guys. Until, that is, they come into contact with the butchers who ran Sobibor.

NOTE: Some readers have unaccountably thought this short story is meant to be history. While it has a historical setting, it is FICTION. If you are looking for Holocaust history, please look elsewhere, and do not drop the star rating because this story is not what you thought it was.
